Sarum wins gold

The week started with the fantastic news that the Magna Carta film made last year for the cathedral by Bournemouth University and in which a number of our pupils played the leading roles, won a gold award at the Regional Royal Television Society Awards. The competition included all the major production companies so this was a huge achievement. Well done to both pupils and ex pupils Jess Goodyear, Alex Browning, Jacob Slater, Jamie Coe, Gemma Lambert, Megan Robertson, Olivia Miller, Danielle Whelan and Jamie Gurd as well as Mr Curtis!

Monday was also an exciting day for Sixth Form debating society who visited the Houses of Parliament. They had a fantastic day exploring Parliament, watching education questions and meeting John Glen, our local MP. Thank you to John for welcoming them and making the day possible.

Jack Bennett has continued his success in the National Cross Country competition event held in Nottingham at the weekend. He ran well, coming fourth out of all the Wiltshire competitors.

Our Extended Learning Day on Wednesday saw a wide variety of exciting activities both inside and out of the Academy. A number of the Sixth Form headed off to Southampton University for the day and our Sixth Form Art and Photography pupils visited Salisbury Museum. We also welcomed the Cold Stream Guards who kept Years 7, 8 and 9 on their toes throughout the day with a variety of self-esteem and team building exercises.

On Thursday I travelled to Exeter to attend the Education South West Conference to meet with about 400 other Principals and Head teachers to consider and reflect on new ways of collaboration and to share good practice.
